

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Two video data processing circuits are used to alternately capture and store a video signal so as to generate an output to 5 a data line during one horizontal line period. With this arrangement, a video signal can drive current driven pixel circuits provided in the respective pixels.